INDEPENDENCE DAY.

There's just one day in all the year
When we can say, "Be quiet,
The girls and boys are in the street,
To make no sound of riot."
Then cannot break in thunder-guns
From forts and arsenals,
And flags outstream, like flowers in bloom,
From windows, eaves and walls.
Then you should hear the crackers go!
A pack set off in a barrel,
Make such a jolly sound, you know—
Like granite in a mortar.
And, on the bells that swing and chime,
And ring and tick the spheres,
And the faintly heard at evening time,
That blaze in rain how drive!

The perfect people snap and pop
Like folk who get in a thrush,
And when you see them all at all,
For they spend their strength in bluster.
The lively rockets please me best,
They show so grand and high,
Then drop again their golden stars
In showers from the sky.

There's just one day in all the year
When the boys and girls are let alone
To make no sound of riot.
Three cheers for Independence Day,
When drums are beat in chorus,
And trumpets blow and bugles peal,
And our flag is streaming in the air.

Chicago will cover a multitude of sins if it gets Joe Mackin in Joliet for five years.

The man who has made a strike for the emptiest honor in this country, lives in Kentucky. He has consented to become the prohibition candidate in that state.

President Cleveland is doing a good deal just now in ripping up the democratic party, and the greater the rip the stronger he has the endorsement of responsibility.

The other day General Logan said: "Let us tear away the mask of reform, that the face of democracy may come forth." Keep still, general; the democracy is tearing away the mask from its own face, and thus exposing itself to ridicule.

A report from New York says that over 400,000 subscriptions have already been received for General Grant's book. The prospects are that it will be the best selling book ever published in this country. This is a good indication of the estimate the people have of the great soldier.

To show the importance of preaching short sermons, the southern papers make mention of the fact that a revivalist recently preached a sermon in Nashville and net $21,000. That is all right. Some sermons short are better worth $21,000 than other sermons long are worth 21 cents.

The stars in their course do not seem to have fought with success in trying to make the democratic papers of the east harmonious and satisfied with the president's appointments. The fact is, no president can feed such a hungry lot with satisfaction to those craving for office.

The country will belong to the boys to-morrow, and they will run things to suit themselves. There will be more enthusiasm on the Fourth in our average boy than in ten men. It will be a glorious occasion for the little fellows, and the old men will be surprised to learn how much noise and fun they can draw from a twenty-five cent fund.

There is one democrat who lives in Titusville, Pennsylvania, that should be rewarded handsomely by the administration, because he is not particular as to what he shall receive. If he can't get the Persian mission or a good consulate, he says he will be reasonable, and for the good of the party would accept a $500 post office in any back country.

The liquor men are doing a good deal to insure the success of prohibition in Kansas. They have commenced the scheme of firing into the homes of leading prohibitionists of that state; and the outrageous attack upon the home of a leading prohibitionist at Armourdale will be worth thousands of votes against the liquor interest.

A young woman in California advertises for a husband. She wants an editor, is 22 years old, is good looking, has 400 acres of land, and is a dead shot with a revolver. The best place for Miss Hill to go for a husband is Arizona. The editors there are original fellows, and what they lack in brains they make up in courage, frankness and marksmanship.

One democratic paper, the Philadelphia Times, makes this remark: "It is feared that if Mr. Hendricks continues at Atlantic City, Indiana will go republican at the next election." This expression was called out by the fact that Mr. Hendricks is making as big a fool of himself at that watering place as he did in Washington on "inspiration day."

Documents have lately come to light showing that during the short period in the years of the rebellion that the United States mint at New Orleans was in the hands of the confederates, $1,835,216.50 in gold and silver pieces were coined. What was done with this money does not appear from any available records. As the confederates are now in the saddle again they should turn over the money they stole to their administration at Washington.

General John C. Fremont and wife are illustrations of the fact that position in New York does not depend wholly on wealth. The Fremonts are very poor. The Pathfinder did not find the path that led to fortune. He is now too helplessly old to discover it. He is a white-haired, emaciated and disabled old man. He is not miscellaneous recognized on the streets; but in the Astor portion of society he and the brilliant Mrs. Fremont have their place with no difficulty. They are, in many of the highly fashionable gatherings, away below the average in quality of dress, but seemingly none the less respected for their shortcomings.

The report of Dr. Douglas on the condition of General Grant's two weeks' living at Mt. McGregor is not of a very comfortable nature to the family. While the change may have resulted in adding a few days to the distinguished patient's life the hard fact remains that he is daily growing weaker and displaying less inclination to exertion. There is little doubt that the disease is slowly sapping the little remaining vitality of the patient and that the inevitable end is not far off. While the general is so near the bottom of the down hill side of life, he is still working on his book.

The postal officials at Washington do not consider the new postal system, that of sending an ounce letter instead of one weighing half an ounce for two cents, of much practical importance. The decrease of postage by the new law will be exceedingly slight in the aggregate. It may enable "spring poets, summer lovers, autumn advertisers and winter begging-letter writers to diffuse their productions more cheaply, but to ordinary correspondents it will not often be an advantage and to business men who learn concise expression from the use of the telegraph it will for the most part be useless." But there seemed to be a gleam for the change, and responding to public sentiment, it was granted.

In accordance with an act passed by the territorial legislature of Dakota, last winter, elections were held Tuesday in all the counties south of the fortieth parallel to choose delegates to a convention to be held at Sioux Falls, September 8, to frame a state constitution for the state of south Dakota, and provide for the election of state officers, in anticipation of its admission as a state by congress. But little interest was taken in the matter, and in several of the counties no election was held. Not more than one-third of the usual vote was cast. Between the opposition of the democratic party in congress and the lack of harmony and interest among the people of Dakota, it will probably be a long time before that territory becomes a state.

The most sensible thing that has come from the administration since the hot months began, is quoted in the New York World as coming from Secretary Alving, which, in plain English is as follows: "Under the present administration matters were to be conducted on a business-like basis, and as the democratic was to be held responsible for the acts of its officials, it was just that its own people should hold the positions." This is only the modern way of saying "To the victors belong the spoils." It is far more honorable to boldly adopt the Jacksonian principle, than to profess one thing and then secretly go to tramp up false charges against a faithful officer on the pretext of having a cause for his removal. The administration would exalt itself considerably if it would be frank and honest about removals.

THE HUGH LEWIS LETTER.
The Madison Democrat and the Food da Lao Journal have published what purports to be correspondence between General Bragg and Captain Hugh Lewis regarding the conversion of the latter from democracy to republicanism last May. The charge now is that the republicans got Lewis drunk, and while in that condition, he was induced to sign the letter which was afterwards widely published and which attracted much attention. As to the mental condition of Captain Lewis at the time the noted letter was published, the Gazette desires to place in evidence a few lines from the State Journal which throws some light on the matter:
"The Bragg-Lewis letters alleged to have been published in the Food da Lao Journal of this morning are quite likely a brace of arrant forgeries. But assuming them to be genuine, the State Journal desires to state that if Hugh Lewis was ever sober in his life, it was when he concocted his letters of recantation and had them published in these columns. Fully a week before the letter was published by him, and during that publication, he conferred with several persons concerning it, and it was current on the streets that he had entirely repudiated liquor, and that such a letter was in preparation by him. During that week it was known to have been absolutely sober. When in person and alone, he brought the letter to this office and earnestly requested its publication, he was surely as sober as a life-long prohibitionist; he conferred with the editors in an entirely rational manner concerning it, and spoke as an intelligent man religiously convinced of political error, and desirous of making tardy amends for heresy. The manuscript was apparently that of Lewis himself, and editors only making the customary editorial improvements in punctuation and grammar. During the fortnight succeeding publication, one or more of the editors of the State Journal saw and conversed with Lewis almost daily. He remained as sober as a water-tan, and talked intelligently and cheerfully about his political reform. He expressed gratified surprise at the wide publication given to his letter and said that he had received from ten to fifteen newspapers per day, with marked editorial referring to the case. He declaimed bitterly against some of the democratic leaders, and said he was proud to be now enrolled in the opposition."
This shows that Captain Lewis was sober at the time he published his recantation and had been for some time. Probably the matter stands in this way—when sober and in his right mind, Lewis felt like being a republican; but when filled up with "democratic enthusiasm" in the shape of "John Barleycorn," or in other words when he is not himself, he feels like being a democrat.

FOREIGN CHEAP LABOR

IT SOON LEARNS TO STRIKE AND STRIKES VICIOUSLY.
Four Thousand Men Out of Cleveland Mills—Hercules Proceedings and More Looked for—Trouble Brewing at Chicago.

CLEVELAND, July 3.—The strike among the employees of the Cleveland Rolling Mill company grows more complicated and threatens to assume greater proportions than anything of the kind on record in these mills. The property in and around the mill grounds has been swarming with men all day, dressed in their Sunday clothes, coaxing or forcing out every man they could reach. Thursday forenoon about 500 men, principally Bohemians, Italians and Poles who formerly worked in various capacities in the wire-mill, swarmed upon the outer gate, forced them open and fled into the yard. Here they compelled every man that came in sight to quit work. Some who tried to escape into the mill were followed with flying bricks and stones. Several of these missiles inflicted slight wounds on the fleeing men. In the re-mill the first in the roller-rooms were out and engineers forced to leave. The engineer in another department refused to leave, but the threats of the strikers induced him to go.
It was reported Thursday evening that Superintendent Walker had agreed to restore the men to their old wages, but they were now thoroughly aroused that they would not return at less than 50 per cent increase, and "two weeks' pay in advance," but of course the company will not yield to such a demand. The crowds were dispersed by the police Thursday evening, but numerous threats of violence were heard as they began to leave. A mass meeting has been arranged for Friday morning. An extra detachment of police has been sent to the scene and no fresh outbreak is anticipated. It is estimated that the strikers are holding out for a result of the mass meeting. The strikers now number 4,000, and most of them are imported from three years ago, who took the places of the men on strike and are men of a separate character, being mostly vicious foreigners.

THE SITUATION AT CHICAGO.

A Quiet Day in Street Railway Circle—Expectation for the Future.
CHICAGO, July 3.—No action whatever was taken Thursday by the West Division Railway company to bring out cars. At the headquarters of the company, the office was crowded in the afternoon with men applying for positions. It is stated that the company is offering money enough to run all its cars, and when they have enough will cut off their lines in operation simultaneously.

The strikers still hold possession of Western Avenue, Lake and Madison streets. The strikers are prepared to meet any and all unexpected move of the company. At the corner of Madison and Halsted streets a large crowd was present during the strike. This, it is understood, is to be one of the principal points of attack on the cars, should an attempt be made to run them. It was there three of the cars were ditched Wednesday and there several scuffles took place between the crowd and the police. There are no signs of movement on the part of the company and the strikers report their ranks unbroken.
A mass meeting attended by about 5,000 citizens was held at Randolph street market square Thursday evening. Richard E. Channon, a labor agitator from the Pacific coast, Congressman Lawler, Richard Powers (president of the Farmer's union), and John Coyne (one of the discharged conductors), made brief addresses. The sentiment of both the audience and speakers was in favor of the strikers.
LATER.—It was learned at midnight that the police authorities are making preparations to protect the property of the street car company, and that a determined effort will be made to start out cars on all lines. It is feared that if this is done blood will be shed, as the strikers are determined that no car shall be run before a compromise is reached.

The War Against the Saints.
SALT LAKE, Utah, July 3.—The arrest of the charge of polygamy Thursday was Apache John Henry Smith, cousin of the Mormon prophet Joseph Smith. He has been in Europe two or three years as president of a mission there, but returned recently, since which time his polygamous wife has been eluding marshals with sub-porners. Her brothers testified that they knew nothing of the marriage; nor that Smith lived with their sister, although she had three children. For want of testimony the commissioners discharged Smith, but sub-porners are out for witnesses in the case to go before the grand jury.
Mormons are delighted with the removal of Henry, chief justice of Idaho. Many saints live in the southern part of that territory, and Morgan has been active in vagrant warfare against them for months past. The Mormons have been working hard to bring about his removal and, having succeeded, are rejoicing almost as much as they would if Chief Justice Kane, of this territory, were retired.

Closed a Freight Rate War.
NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., July 3.—The Central Traffic association held a meeting at the Cataract house Thursday, at which the subject of east-bound freight was discussed and an agreement arrived at. The association was represented by a committee of thirteen, and Mr. Hugh Riddie, ex-president of the Rock Island road, was elected commissioner for the association. It was agreed that the 30-cent rate to New York be restored; also rates in conjunction therewith to other points. The fortunate settlement of the disastrous freight war, which has been going on for a long time, was welcomed with enthusiasm.

A Druggist's Fatal Error.
CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 3.—The fact came out Thursday morning that Chas. Kilpatrick, only son of Thomas Kilpatrick, the Euclid avenue drug goods merchant, was killed through a druggist's mistake. The boy was suffering with diphtheria, and a prescription was taken to a leading druggist, who prepared a stronger dose of the medicine than the prescription called for. The mother of the boy and the druggist are nearly insane with grief.

A Good Man to Dangle at a Rope's End.
UTICA, N. Y., July 3.—Thursday evening at Morris, N. Y., John A. Schuyler took his life by hanging himself. He was hanged by his wife, when in his anger he caught his 2-year-old child from his chair and dashed his brains out on the chopping-block. He gave himself up, and was taken to jail.

Base Ball.
CHICAGO, July 3.—Only one League game was reported Thursday: At Detroit—New York 9, Detroit 4. Other games: At Pittsburgh—Pittsburgh 9, Cincinnati 4; at Louisville—Louisville 3, Indianapolis 1.

It is a remedy applied externally only, which is harmless taken inwardly, which cures the disease by "excrustation." All matter poisonous to the blood is withdrawn from the blood through the ulcers, sores or wounds, and not by passing through the system into the stomach and bowels, to be expelled by excretion; the blood is purified by the impurities being withdrawn; the sores or ulcers are cleansed from all parasitic attachments; the healthy matter take prominence, and nature performs a cure immediately. The Papillon Skin Cure is sold by PRENTICE & EVENSON, opposite the postoffice, where may be found all medicines advertised in the Janesville papers.
